BUILDING CEMENT.

The Most Ancient Form Was Simply Burned Limestone.

Cement, concrete and especially "reinforced concrete" will, according to some authorities, solve many of the hard problems confronting the architects and builders of modern structures. Cement is known to have been used by the Chaldeans, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. The most ancient form of cement was simply burned limestone, more or less pure, used very much as ordinary lime is used at the present time. The Romans were the first to adulterate lime by adding certain clay soils and slate for the purpose of making a cement of a hydraulic nature—that is, one which would set or harden under water. Pliny, who lived in the first century A. D., describes the method of modifying ordinary burned limestone and converting it into a form of hydraulic cement.

In ancient times it was believed that the best cement was made from the hardest rock, and this opinion was not modified from the time of the Romans down to the eighteenth century. However, John Smeaton, the man who built the second Eddystone lighthouse, in course of examining the various hydraulic cements for use in the foundation and masonry made the important discovery that the quality of hydraulic cement depends upon the amount of clay in the limestone. This is conceded to be the most important discovery in the art in nearly twenty centuries.

On the Isle of Portland, in the south of England, there are certain quarries of limestone which have been worked for many years, in former times producing building stone. In 1824 an Englishman named Joseph Aspdin of Leeds, patented a process for mixing and burning lime and clay. The product looked so much like the Portland limestone that he called it "Portland cement," from which the commonly known name given to nearly all kinds of hydraulic cement was derived.—Chicago News.

Scientific Wrecks.

The German government has taken possession of a short strip of track near Berlin and is planning to execute a unique series of railroad "accidents" made to order. Every variety of misplaced switch will be tested, every possible defect in wheels, axles and car equipment will be tried out, and the grand finale is to be an immense head-on collision of locomotives. These spectacular exhibitions are not planned by the government as a national amusement. They are for the purpose of scientific experiment, so that the engineers and railway experts may study ways and means to prevent accidents of all kinds in the future.

Railroad disasters have occurred with alarming frequency in the German empire. It is estimated that the German railways lose $1,200,000 annually through damages. After the causes and effects of each variety of wreck have been noted it will be the task of the government officials to devise safeguards.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Tallest High School Student.

Carl Fletcher, standing six feet seven and a half inches in his shoes, a member of the class of '09 of the Seattle High school, will hardly have his claim disputed to being the tallest high school student in the United States. Sophomore Fletcher is but eighteen years old, so that by the time he reaches "man's stature" he should have added at least three more inches to his height. The abnormal development of Carl Fletcher "upward" is not readily ascribed to heritage. Fletcher pere is but five feet five inches, and the school-boy's mother is four inches taller than her husband. All of the members of the family are of normal height, although an older brother, manager of the Latona drug store, is six feet two inches.—Seattle Times.

The Biggest Telescope.

The biggest telescope in the world is the Common telescope, five feet in diameter, twenty inches wider than the Yerkes. It was constructed ten years ago by Dr. A. A. Common, a well known astronomer of England, who wanted it for research work. He died soon afterward, and his fine telescope became idle. Two years ago it was purchased by the Harvard college observatory, which proceeded at once to mount it on the observatory grounds at Cambridge. The work has been necessarily slow, for mounting a great telescope is not like building a house.

Sulphur Under Quick sand.

Most of the sulphur consumed in the United States comes from Louisiana, where are vast deposits at a depth of from 600 to 800 feet. As there is a layer of quicksand a hundred feet thick above the sulphur, it was impossible until lately to get out paying quantities. Now, however, it is secured by driving down two pipes. One pipe carries a jet of steam, which, coming in contact with the solid bed of sulphur, melts it into a liquid. This is then forced to the surface by air pressure through the other pipe.

A New Potato.

Vegotarians will doubtless hail with delight the advent of a new potato, blue of skin and yellow of interior, which is about to be placed upon the market. This potato is known as the Salanum comersoni violet and is the result of scientific cultivation at Reading, England. It has a distinct flavor of its own. Epicures describe it as a combined flavor of turnips and asparagus.

Castle Williams.

Castle Williams, on Governors island, in New York bay, was named for Colonel Jonathan Williams, first superintendent of West Point, known as "father of the engineer corps" and designer of most of the fortifications around New York harbor, including the one which bears his name.

Mighty Mice.

The Hindoo have a proverb to the effect that women fear mice, mice fear men and men fear women.

HERE AND THERE.

A "Suit Yourself" Hat Season—Simplicity in Tailored Costumes.

All sorts of hats are fashionable, and one may wear what is most becoming or what appeals to one's fancy. Large and small hats have an equal following for precedence. Among the latter class is a delightful little toque formed entirely of pink roses with a splendid black velvet placed directly in front. Cream tints are apt to make the complexion look yellow, while dead white has much to commend it. Rose and all shades of pink continue popular, but there is no color that can be called a predominant fashion. It is quite a question of pleasing oneself, though it is observable that emerald green is trying hard for a place in millinery.

Chiffon broadcloth continues to be the smart material for fall and winter costumes. It is rumored that tailored suits are to be less elaborate than they were last winter, but there is every possibility that charming trimmings will be seen on the tailored gown.

There is a new color—raven's wing blue—which is in reality nothing more than a very blue black.

Gray hats are to be all the rage for theater and restaurant wear. They are kept all in one tone.

Very simple and smart is the blouse seen in the illustration. It may be successfully developed in any of the soft woolen materials or in silk. Broad trimmed bands overlaid with motifs of the same braid is the only adornment.

Caps.

Caps of linen, wool, straw, bark of trees and leather were extensively worn in Egypt and Arabia in early times and were usually of a pointed or peaked shape. The variety of head-dresses used by the Egyptian ladies was very great.

The discovery in Ceylon of thorium, the rare earth used in the manufacture of incandescent gas mantles, will deprive Germany of the monopoly of its supply.

American exports of cotton, raw and manufactured, were last year $431,000,000. Iron and steel came next with $134,000,000, then hog products with $105,000,000.

Industrial wages paid in the United States for 1905 were 1.6 per cent higher than for the preceding year, according to official figures. The cost of food increased by 0.6 per cent, which left the workman 1 per cent additional revenue.

CLAY FARM,--- 1 1 2 Miles from this City.

This elegant Farm containing 108 acres, has been placed with us for immediate sale. We believe it would be difficult to find a more desirable place, either as a money maker or in more pleasant location. The place will carry 25 cows, summer and winter, and produces about 70 tons of hay. The soil is especially rich and productive, being well adapted for any crop. Tillage land lays well. Pasture can be plowed, and for its size cannot be beat in the county. The cut gives an idea of the buildings, but the place must be seen to be appreciated. Nice water and plenty of fruit and wood. We will be pleased to show you this property and tell you about the income derived from it. Large photograph at office. Call any time. Open every evening except Thursday.
